The ABC of Mining Exploration

Sampling and Analysis of Well Water

Since November 2022, the company has been carrying out sampling in domestic wells within a radius of approximately 5km of the Marban project. A radius larger than the one dictated by existing regulations. We took this proactive approach to obtain a clearer picture of the groundwater in the vicinity of the Marban project.

In the coming weeks, we will visit our surrounding neighbours, to document the situation and then establish the potential impact of the Marban mining project on the water resource. We will use this information to integrate it into the project's environmental impact study.

The sampling work is carried out by our technicians and takes place in two stages. The estimated duration of the visit is approximately one hour.

The work is carried out by the technician in two main steps:

STEP 1 : Measure the water level in the well

The technician inserts a probe into the well to determine the level of water as measured from the land surface. The analysis takes just a few minutes and has no effect on the well water.

Dipper-T2 probe: On contact with water, the probe emits an audio signal. The technician can then read the result on the measuring tape.

STEP 2 : Sample and water quality analysis

Water is analyzed on site for the following parameters: dissolved oxygen, pH, temperature and conductivity. For the other parameters, filled bottles are sent to an accredited laboratory to analyze the composition of the water and measure its quality.

The results of the analysis are shared with the well owner.
